MTi's Newsletter Teaser Plays...

Two-Team, Six-Point Teaser Play of the Week

4-Star Carolina -1, Giants +12

Supporting Teaser-Specific Trends:

The Panthers are 20-0 ATSP6 when they are off a home win and they are facing an opponent that is allowing an average of more than 375 offensive yards per game. The Giants are 18-0 ATSP6 when they are off two consecutive games with a negative DPS, the last of which was at home. Note: DPS is delta points scored and a negative DPS means that they scored fewer points than expected.

Three-Team, Ten-Point Teaser Play of the Week

Ravens +6.5, Seattle +8.5, Chicago +18

Supporting Teaser-Specific Trends:

When playing a non-divisional opponent, the Ravens are 36-0 ATSP10 off a game as a favorite in which they had more punts than third downs made. The Seahawks are 33-0 ATSP10 when the line is within 3 of pick on grass vs a team that had fewer regular season wins the previous season. The Bears are 30-0 ATSP10 on grass off a loss facing an opponent that is averaging less than five rushing first downs per game.

MTi's NFL Selections / Week 3

MTi's Newsletter Side Play

4.5-Star CHICAGO +8 over Pittsburgh - The Steelers are off a 26-9 win over the Vikings in which Case Keenum was a late sub for Sam Bradford. This has been a soft spot for them, so we are grabbing the generous points.

Pittsburgh is 0-13 as a six-plus point road favorite off a home win. The SDQL text is:

team=Steelers and A and line<=-6 and p:HW and date>=19951008

The Steelers were in this spot last season in week 6, laying seven in Miami after beating the Jets 31-13 at home. Pittsburgh simply did not show up in Miami and was embarrassed 30-15.

In addition, the Steelers are 0-13 ATS (-8.88 ppg) on the road on grass off a win when they are facing a team that is forcing less than 1.25 turnovers per game. The SDQL text is:

team=Steelers and A and surface=grass and p:W and oA(o:TO)<1.25 and date>=20070930

Chicago is 0-2 on the season, losing at home to the Falcons in week one and then losing to the Bucs in Tampa in week two and they play in Green Bay next week. The Steelers are 2-0 after beating the Browns and Vikings both as favorites of more than a TD. This line is significantly inflated as a result. However, Chicago is a very tough 12-0 ATS at home after a double-digit loss when they are between road games. The SDQL text is:

team=Bears and D and p:margin<=-10 and H and p:A and n:A and season >= 1992

The Bears won each of their last TEN in this spot straight up - and they were the dog every time. Chicago only won three games last season and two were in just this situation; a 17-14 win over the Lions and a 20-10 win over the Vikings.

Finally, it is worth mentioning that the Bears have done well when they have struggled to put points on the board for two straight games. Chicago is 8-0 ATS as a six-plus point underdog when they are off a game as a road dog and they scored fewer points than expected in each of their last two games. The SDQL text is:

team=Bears and line>=6 and p:AD and p:dps<0 and pp:dps<0 and season >= 2000

In their last three in this spot they are 3-0 straight up scoring 35, 36 and 37 points respectively and they were getting at least a TD in each win.

The Steelers play in Baltimore next week, by far their toughest game of the season and it will be for the division lead. Grab the generous points.

MTi's FORECAST: CHICAGO 17 Pittsburgh 16

MTi's Newsletter Totals Play

4.5-Star Denver at Buffalo OVER 40 - Both these teams like to feature the rush, which is why this total is so low. However, both these team have demonstrated a strong tendency to go over when facing other running teams.

The Broncos are 17-0 as a favorite over a win by more than a TD when they are facing a non-divisional opponent that is averaging at least 28.5 rushes and at least 150 passing yards per game. The SDQL text is:

team=Broncos and F and NDIV and p:margin>7 and oA(rushes)>28.5 and oA(PY)>150

On the Bills' side of the ledger, we see that they are 12-0 OU when they are off a loss and are a home dog to a team that has achieved fewer than 56% of their first downs through the air season-to-date. The SDQL text is:

team=Bills and HD and p:L and oS(PFD)/oS(FD)<0.56 and date>=19981004

Note that Buffalo has gone over by an average of 13.4 ppg in this spot.

Another key factor is that the Bills only had 21:07 of possession time last week in their 9-3 loss to the Panthers. Again, both teams have strong OVER indicators in this spot. Buffalo is 11-0 OU (+10.59 ppg) at home after they had at least three fewer minutes of possession time than their season-to-date average and the Broncos are 15-0 OU (+13.17 ppg) as a favorite over a team that had less than 26 minutes of possession time in their last game. The SDQL text for these two, respectively is:

team=Bills and H and p:TOP -tA(p:TOP) <= -180 and date>=20091129

team=Broncos and F and NDIV and op:TOP<26 * 60 and date>=20051217

In each of the Broncos' last thirteen games in this spot they have scored at least thirty points.

This is the lowest total that the Bills have had since November 2013 and that game finished 37-14.

The OVER here is bursting with line value.

SportsBook Breakers' NFL Selections / Week 3

SBB's Newsletter Side

4-STAR Seattle over TENNESSEE – This line suggests these teams are even when disregarding home field, and we just cannot by that Tennessee is really to that level. They were dominated at home by a Oakland team no better than Seattle already this season and we don't see them as being ready for top level competition or being able to take advantage of Seattle's glaring weakness in pass blocking. This is the best defense in the NFL still and one we see giving Marcus Mariotta fits.

Tennessee is coming off a 37-16 win against Jacksonville Sunday. The Titans are 0-12-1 ATS (-8.42 ppg) since Oct 31, 2010 coming off a 10+ point win (team=Titans and 10<=p:margin and date>=20101031).

It has been extremely difficult for Tennessee to back up those big scoring performances. The Titans are 0-15-1 ATS (-9.8 ppg) since October 31, 2010 coming off a win where they scored at least 28 points (team=Titans and p:points>=28 and p:W and date>=20101031).

It is actually only one good half that Tennessee has played this season. They one led 6-3 at halftime against Jacksonville before winning the second half by 18 points. The Titans are 0-7-1 ATS (-9.5 ppg) since Sep 25, 2011 after they outscored their opponent by more than seven points in the second half last game (team=Titans and 7<p:margin - p:M2 and date>=20110925).

They outgained Jacksonville, 390-310 in the win. The Titans are 0-11 ATS (-10.45 ppg) since Dec 01, 2013 off a win in which they outgained their opponent (team=Titans and p:W and p:TY>p:TY and date>=20131201).

It was Tennessee's running game that really controlled the game, as they picked up 179 yards on the ground while both teams threw for the exact same amount of yards. The Titans are 0-7 ATS (-8.36 ppg) since Dec 11, 2011 coming off a road win where they had at least 150 rushing yards (team=Titans and p:rushing yards>=150 and p:AW and date>=20111211).

SPORTSBOOK BREAKERS PREDICTION: Seattle by 10

SportsBook Breakers' Total Play

4-STAR Miami and NY Jets Over – The over on the Jets is a major value spot that is not yet being realized. People were thrown off the scent by their week one game against the Bills. But that is more the Bills when you consider that their next game against Carolina had 12 combined points. We expect New York to play many more games like week two against Oakland where they allowed this many points just by themselves and also moved the ball solidly in garbage time. That won't be the case any more when the Jets turn to their young QBs, but with Josh McCown at the helm, we expect a level of offensive confidence to help easily get over totals such as this.

Miami is the road favorite here in a game they are expected to control against a worse team. In these spots, they have tried to control these teams by opening up the scoring. The Dolphins are 7-0 OU (13.71 ppg) since Dec 21, 2014 as a favorite when they are playing a team with a better record (team=Dolphins and F and WP>o:WP and date>=20141221).

And yet, the total here is very modest, and early in the season that can be a mistake in underestimating offensive abilities. Since 2011, in the first five weeks of the season, games with a total of less than 42 are 53-34-2 OU (week<=5 and total<42 and season>=2011 and H).

Miami is coming off a narrow 19-17 week one win against the Chargers. The Dolphins are 6-0 OU (11.08 ppg) since Dec 28, 2014 as a favorite off a win (team=Dolphins and F and p:W and date>=20141228).

New York is coming off a 45-20 loss in Oakland last week. They actually were able to establish a running attack despite the lopsided score. They ran 25 times for 126 yards. The Jets are 9-0 OU (12.11 ppg) since Nov 30, 2008 at home after they had at least 10 more rushes than their season-to-date average (team=Jets and H and tA(p:rushes) + 10<=p:rushes and date>=20081130).

They also picked up seven of their 12 third down attempts after picking up only 4-of-14 in the series opener. The Jets are 10-0 OU (+13.45 ppg) off a game as a dog in which their third down conversions increased by at least three over their previous game (team = Jets and p:D and p:3DM - pp:3DM >= 3 and date >= 20100124).

SPORTSBOOK BREAKERS PREDICTION: 51 points

Vince Akins of SportsBook Breakers is a top NFL Handicaper over the long haul. During the past six seasons, has produced a winning NFL record. SportsBook Breakers picks, which include strong player trends and dynamite NFL systems, can be found at Killercappers.com.

SportsBook Breakers' Spotlight System

SportsBook Breakers has spent the past season focused on league systems and has found over 100 that are winners at well over the 55% required rate for the long-term success. Each week, SBB will highlight an active league system here. If you are looking for more SDQL-based systems from SBB each week, check out their offerings on the Killersports.com Trends Mart.

PLAY OVER: Teams which lost last week while allowing less than 10 points

44-20-1 OU (5.68, 68.8%)

SDQL TEXT: p:L and po:points<10

When a certain style of play fails to succeed for a team, it is natural that they try something else. There are times when that happens, yet a bettor is stuck looking at the past and does not realize the change is about to occur. This is one such time.

Teams which lost last week while allowing less than 10 points are 44-20-1 OU.

In that previous game, these teams were all about defense and playing conservative football. They didn't take any chances to put their defense in a bind and enough though the defense played well, it was not enough.

In these next game, the teams are willing to be a little more free wheeling. They commit 2.0 turnovers per game and force 2.2, significantly over the average of 1.7 turnovers. This helps lead to more scoring chances on each side.

In the higher scoring era, there are no longer many games where both teams score in single digits but it happened last week when Buffalo fell to Carolina, 9-3. This week, Buffalo faced Denver as a home dog with a very modest total of 40. Consider the over on this modest total.

Pick Sixty Sports: Tips and Totals

While researching football during the offseason I came across an article that argued how much better the Minnesota Vikings could be in 2017 with just a marginal increase in offense. The author, whose bias towards Minny's success was abundantly clear, pointed out the team's 20.4 points per game average (23rd overall). He went on to cite the narrow losses against Detroit and Dallas in Week's 12-13. By improving to around 23 or 24 PPG, he said, the Vikings would be a 10-win team with a surefire bid at the Wild Card, if not the outright division title.

Green Bay (10-6 SU) won the NFC North last year and Detroit's 9-7 record was also good enough for a brief playoff appearance, so his math made sense. We also saw how dramatically different the Vikings were this year in two games, one with and one without Sam Bradford in the lineup. Location and caliber of opponent were other factors in Minnesota's 1-1 start but I digress. This article isn't specifically about the Vikings.

My reaction to his wishful prognosis was the same to almost every other NFL literature I come across: How can I test this with SDQL to try and find an edge?

FINE LINE BETWEEN SUCCESS & FAILURE

After running a few offensive-based queries I decided to look at things from the other side of the football. How well did top teams perform when holding their opponent's to a midrange number of points?

Note: The NFL average for points allowed in 2016 was 22.78, seen with this query:

SDQL: tA(o:points @ REG) @ team,1 and season=2016
```

Of the 12 playoff teams in 2016, nine had a winning record when allowing between 20 and 24 points. The combined record of those nine teams was 29-8 straight up (.784 WP). The teams can be found with this query.

```
SDQL: team,1 and season=2016 and 20<=o:points<=24 and REG

The three non-winning records in this scenario belonged to the Giants (3-4), Lions (1-1) and Falcons (0-1). Even with those teams factored in, the record for legitimate playoff teams when allowing the league average for points was 33-14 SU (.702 WP). Minnesota's final record for this spot was an inferior 1-3 SU and included two divisional losses.

VALUE ON THE LINE

Fast-forward to 2017 and I wanted to see how previous-season playoff teams did immediately following a game where they allowed a mid-ranged number of points. My theory is that good teams figure out ways to win games in difficult situations. Whether it's a bounce back game, a road game or when matched against a tough opponent, perhaps there was opportunity for these teams to cover in the right circumstances.

SDQL: tpS(PO, N=2) >= 1 and 20 < po:points < 28 and A and REG
```

With the query above we can see a 58-percent ATS win-percentage with road teams off a game where they allowed between 20 and 28 points (200-147-7 ATS). Of the 16 seasons in database history, 12 produced a winning record. The three strongest seasons in this profile have each occurred since 2011. "Live" this week are the Atlanta Falcons -3 at Detroit and the New York Giants getting +6 points at Philadelphia.

```
SDQL: tpS(PO, N=2) >= 1 and 20 < po:points < 28 and A and REG and line >= 3

In this sub-profile for underdogs of +3 points or more we can see a 89-55-6 ATS record (62-percent) with a 60-percent run the "Under". Divisional games are staying low at a 65% clip including a 4-13 O/U run since November 2011. The seven games in that span with a total lower than 47 went 0-7 O/U and the current total for New York at Philly is listed at 43.

Teams off loss by 10 or more points are 8-19 O/U with regular Sunday games lined between 38 and 47 going 1-13-1 O/U. With any line, we are also seeing a nice 16-8 ATS record when our play ON team is coming off Monday Night Football, seen here:

SDQL: tpS(PO, N=2) >= 1 and 20 < po:points < 28 and A and REG and p:MNF and NB
```

The New York Giants are 1-5 ATS their last six games against Philadelphia and they are under the gun. Eli and Ben McAdoo want this one badly and Philly has a meek 4-13 ATS record facing revenge (1-5 ATS at home).

```
SDQL: team = Eagles and P:W and P:season = season -1 and date >= 20101128
```

The Giants' divisional dog record in the first meeting of the year off a non-divisional game is 10-2 ATS. The fact that each of the two losses were against Philly is a concern but those were before Doug Pederson's time.

```
SDQL: team = Giants and P:season = season -1 and DIV and p:NDIV and D and season > 2003
```

Divisional road dogs of any number have a 23-16-2 ATS record off a non-divisional Monday night game. Eliminate the Week 17 games which are often meaningless, and this profile improves to 22-11-2 ATS. Clubs that were blown away bad in the national spotlight are 10-4 ATS with 3 overs, 9 unders and a couple pushes.

```
SDQL: p:MNF and AD and DIV and p:NDIV and NB and week < 17

PICK SIXTY PLAY OF THE WEEK

New York's O-Line is a concern against this Philly pass rush but I'm looking for the Giants to find a way to take advantage of the pedestrian Eagle secondary. For our Pick Sixty play of the week, find at least six and back the ugly duckling Giants to grind out a cover.

Pick: Take the GIANTS

System Analysis

The college football season roars into Week Four and we are back with our NCAA Football College System of the Week. Last week we suffered a rare loss as the Beavers came up a little short against the Cougars in Pullman Saturday night.

This week our research started with favorites and we of course used the normal parameters such as home and away to start the search. We wanted to know how home favorites responded after losing by a single point. That is a broad search so we refined it by using a few situations from some of last week's games that made for interesting research.

The most important question for us would these home favorites with the burden of carrying chalk once again rise to the occasion and have the motivation to bounce back from such an emotional gut-wrenching loss? The answer to our question is yes these teams do respond and under the right situation they do so by double-digits both straight up and against the spread.

We found that after a home favorite loss of a single point when favored by at least a field goal but not more than two touchdowns these home favorites bounce back in a big way and roll to an easy victory. The burden of being installed as a home favorite does not hold these teams down they have responded winning by an average of 24.12 points per game and covering the odds-makers number by an average of 10.38 points per game.

Last week the Western Kentucky Hilltoppers were at home installed as four and a half point favorites over the Bulldogs of Louisiana Tech. Unfortunately for the Hilltoppers and their backers they came up short losing 23 to 22 to the Bulldogs.

The final system parameter refers to the home favorite's opponent this week and the system asks that they not come into this game off a home favorite victory over a conference opponent. The Hilltoppers opponent this week will be the Ball State Cardinals. Last week the Cardinals faced Tennessee Tech who is not a conference opponent which seals their fate as the play against team in this week's system.

With all of the system parameters met this week's NCAA Football System of the Week calls for a play on the Western Kentucky Hilltoppers in their game against the Ball State Cardinals on Saturday. Have a great weekend and as always good luck.
