PICK SIXTY SPORTS WEEKLY TIP:

Two of the worst records in the NFC go head to head Sunday when Atlanta flies into Tampa Bay for a divisional game against the Bucs. The Falcons have won eight of 11 meetings since 2008 (4-6-1 ATS) and seven of 11 games stayed under including four of five at Tampa but this is by far the worst defensive unit Atlanta has fielded since 2007 when the team finished 4-12 SU.

The Mike Smith-Matt Ryan era began in 2008 and when facing divisional foes whose record is below .500 the Falcs are 11-5 SU with a scoring average of 25.8 points per game. They beat Tampa 31-23 in Week 7 this year and I have little doubt the Falcs will score into the mid-20's again Sunday but Tampa should also be able to move the ball against this porous Falcon D. The Mike Glennon-led offense has generated 20-plus points in four of the past five games and we'll give the rookie a pass for coming up short against Carolina. The Bucs also fit this profile which is 12-5 O/U (71-percent) since 2006 looking at divisional home teams who were matched against non-division foes the past couple weeks.

SDQL: H and p:W and -3 <= t:line <= 3 and DIV and p:NDIV and pp:NDIV and tpp:week + 2 = week and season >= 2006 and total >= 43

Tampa is 0-3 SU vs. the division in 2013 and if they are going to win one, this will be the team's best shot. Look for an up-tempo gameplan resulting in an OVER 43.5.

Note: It is not SportsBook Breakers recommendation to make plays based solely on one trend (our selections at killercappers.com don't). Weigh these trends along with other factors accordingly.
