Tracking The 2016 Season...

While the powerful SDQL is great for tracking complex and very specific handicapping information, it is also just as useful for tracking the basics. In this spot all season long we will track basic handicapping situations over the full season, as well as how they did in 2015.

Situation	2016 ATS record	2015 ATS record
Home	32-30-1	117-132-7
Home Dog	11-7-1	40-39-3
Home Favorite	20-21	74-85-4
Off a win	23-23	122-108-10
Off a Cover	24-21	119-106-8
Passes Per Game	36.4 passes	35.8 passes
Rushes Per Game	25.8 rushes	26.3 rushes
Average Total Score	45.5 ppg.	45.6 ppg.

4.5-Star Tennessee +3.5 over MIAMI - Both these teams are 1-3 and both are looking at this game as a great opportunity to get to within one game of 500 on the season. The Dolphins' lone win came at home vs the winless Browns in overtime and the Titans upset the Lions in Detroit for their lone win. We look for character in games like these and the Titans are the team that has demonstrated mental toughness under these conditions. Tennessee is 7-0 ATS on the road on grass vs a non-divisional opponent with the same W-L record. The SDQL text is:

team = Titans and A and surface = grass and NDIV and wins = o:wins and losses = o:losses and season >= 2006

The Titans have won each of their last five in this spot straight up and they have covered the line in the seven games by an average of 13.5 ppg.

Tennessee is also 10-0 ATS when visiting a non-divisional opponent that has converted an average of fewer than 33% of their third downs season-to-date, as long as it is not the last week of the regular season. The SDQL here is:

team = Titans and A and NDIV and oA(3DP)<33 and week<17 and season >=2006

It is not difficult to find situations in which the Dolphins have performed badly against the number, the Dolphins are 0-14 ATS as a home favorite off a loss when their opponent is off a road game and 0-15 ATS as a favorite the week after a road game in which they got a first down on less than 25% of their offensive plays.

These two trends are taken from page 68 of the 2016 KillerSports.com NFL Handicapping Bible, which is a free download from KillerSports.com.

We are on the Titans at this meaty number.

MTi's FORECAST: Tennessee 17 MIAMI 16

MTi's Newsletter Totals Play

4-Star San Diego at Oakland OVER 50 - The Chargers' defense has allowed two big comebacks this season, so we can't imagine San Diego thinking any lead is safe. The Chargers should feel pressure to score on every possession and that should be enough to get it over this number.

The Raiders have allowed an average of 460 yards per game season to date and this is dead last in the league by more than 35 yards. San Diego is 14-0 OU on the road off a game as a favorite when their opponent allowed more than 350 total yards and allowed at least two red zone attempts made in their last game. The SDQL text is: team = Chargers and A and p:F and opo:TY > 350 and opo:RZM>1 and date >= 20091200

Also, San Diego is 13-0 OU as a road dog off a game as a single-digit favorite in which they had at fewer minutes of possession time than their season-to-date average. The SDQL is:

team = Chargers and p:F and p:line>-10 and AD and p:TOP < tA(tp:TOP) and season >= 2002

Note that the Chargers have gone over by an average of 13.3 ppg in this spot.

Oakland had 13 first downs vs the Ravens last week but only three of them came on third down. They won nonetheless, upsetting the Ravens 28-27 in Baltimore. This points to the OVER here, as the Raiders are 10-0 OU off a road win in which they had more than 12 first downs and 30% or fewer of them came on third down. The SDQL text is:

team = Raiders and p:AW and po:3DM / po:FD <=0.3 and p:FD>12 and date >= 20101200

The fact that they have gone over the total by an average of 15.05 ppg in this spot is significantly more important than the record of 10-0. Oakland was 2-0 OU in this spot last season and they are already 2-0 in this spot THIS season with each one of the four games going over by MORE than a TD.

Finally, Oakland is 11-0 OU off a win as not more than a 4-point favorite in which the ratio of their passing yards to their rushing yards was at least 2.60. The SDQL text is:

team = Raiders and p:W and p:PY / p:RY>= 2.6 and p:line>=-4 and date >= 20041200

So, the Raiders are confident and the passing game is going well. We don't see them being passive here. Take the OVER.

MTi's FORECAST: San Diego 31 OAKLAND 28

SBB's Newsletter Side

4-STAR DETROIT over Philadelphia – Two weeks ago in this newsletter, we were all over Philadelphia over Pittsburgh, but now the tables have turned. Philadelphia is a road favorite after beating two of the worst teams in the league and having one big game. To trust them as a road favorite right now just doesn't make sense and we expect the Lions to finally show up here in a must win spot.

Detroit is now 1-3 on the season facing the 3-0 Eagles. Teams with no more than one win and at least three losses who are playing a team with at least three wins are 330-239-14 ATS (wins<=1 and losses>=3 and o:wins>=3).

And now Philadelphia is favored on the road after playing at home against the Steelers before their bye. The Eagles are 0-8 ats since Nov 28, 2010 as a road favorite coming off a home game (team = Eagles and p:H and AF and date >= 20101128).

In that game, Philadelphia was more than a three point underdog at home, signally a huge shift in lines. Teams favored by at least two points on the road after playing as a dog of at least three points at home last game are 51-80-4 ATS (p:HD and AF and p:line>=3 and line<=2).

Philadelphia had a strong offensive showing in that game with 426 yards of total offense. The Eagles are 0-12 ATS (-14.5 ppg) since December 12, 2010 as a favorite in non-Monday night games after a home game where they5 had at least 355 total yards (team=Eagles and F and day!=Monday and p:TY>=355 and p:H and date>=20101212).

But their defense was also quite solid in the game, holding the Steelers to just 15 first downs and the lone field goal. The Eagles are 0-9 ats since Dec 27, 2009 as a favorite off a home game where they allowed less than 18 first downs (team=Eagles and F and po:first downs<=18 and p:H and date>=20091227).

For Detroit, this game signals the complete opposite line move as Philly. Just last week, they were three-point favorites in Chicago. Teams as a home dog of more than a point after a game as an away favorite of more than a point 53-32-4 ATS (HD and p:AF and p:L and line>1 and p:line<-1).

SPORTSBOOK BREAKERS PREDICTION: DETROIT by 4

SportsBook Breakers' Total Play

4-STAR Cincinnati and Dallas Under – The 2016 Bengals have limited weapons with just AJ Green their only big-play threat through the air. They have not scored more than 23 points in a game this season and yet are expected to do so on the road here.

For Dallas, when they play non-NFC East foes, scoring tends to be lower. The Cowboys are 0-6 ou since Oct 04, 2015 as a dog and vs a non-divisional opponent (team = Cowboys and D and NDIV and date >= 20151004).

Last week, Cincinnati won over Miami on Thursday night, 22-7. They did not commit any turnovers in that game while forcing two. The Bengals are 0-8 ou since Dec 18, 2011 on the road and after they had a turnover margin of at least +2 (team = Bengals and A and p:TOM <= -2 and date >= 20111218).

Their defense really carried the game including racking up five sacks. The Bengals are 0-9 ou since Nov 16, 1997 on the road off a 10+ point win where their defense achieved 4+ sacks (team = Bengals and 10 <= p:margin and A and 4 <= p:sacks and date >= 19971116).

On offense they played very conservatively, with five field goal attempts, all makes. Teams which attempted at least five field goals last game are 95-140-4 OU (p:field goals attempted>=5).

Cincinnati played very conservative running the ball 37 times while Dallas also relied on the ground game last week in their 24-17 win over San Francisco. In that game, Dallas ran the ball 39 times. Teams playing in games where the total is at least 44.5 after they rushed the ball more than 35 times last game are 239-296-7 OU (p:rushes>35 and total>=44.5).

PLAY ON: Winless teams which are at least 7.5 point home dogs

43-28-2 ATS (1.54, 60.6%)

SDQL TEXT: wins=0 and H and line>=7.5

Much of NFL handicapping comes down to finding value. Value can come in all sorts of forms - favorites and underdogs, good teams and bad teams, etc - but more often than not, value is driven by a team that has not performed well so far. That is what we see with their system.

Winless teams which are at least 7.5 point home dogs are 43-28-2 ATS.

When a team is winless and it starts piling up losses as the season goes along, things can feel hopeless. But looking at it in this week for instance, the difference between a 0-4 team and a 1-3 team is not all that much.

Interestingly, it has been the winless team's offense that has performed above expectations in these game. The big underdogs actually allowed .8 points more than expected in these games on average. But that is made up for by the offenses, which score 18.2 points per game, 2.4 more than expected.

There is only one winless teams left in the league and that is the Cleveland Browns. And they fit the bill we described earlier, as they could easily be at least 1-3 having lost each of their last three games by single digits including an overtime loss. But because they don't have that win, they are huge 11-point underdogs favorite New England this week. Consider grabbing the points with the Browns playing hard.

System Analysis

We are already at Week Six of the college football season it is really hard to believe time just flies by during the most enjoyable time of the year. Our NCAA Football System of the Week won again last week as we called for a play ON the Wyoming Cowboys plus the six points against the Colorado State Rams. The Cowboys easily came through for us winning outright 38 to 17 over the Rams. Our NCAA Football System of the Week now stands at 4-0 ATS on the season.

This week our college football research looked into teams who are coming off a straight up victory over a previously undefeated team. We wondered would these teams continue to play at a high level or would the emotional cost of that victory leave the winning team flat and lifeless this week.

Would the respective coaching staff have the ability to get them ready both physically and emotionally for another big game especially if this week's opponent is also coming in off a straight up win in their last game. In the three decades we have been handicapping college football we found that emotion even when it seems obvious that it will play a part and you believe you had read the tea leaves correctly you can easily find yourself on the wrong side.

This is where the SDQL saves the day and answers that question giving us the right side of that emotionally charged equation. The system is almost perfect losing just one time against the spread and that came last season but the system rebounded with another victory which gives us a win percentage of 93. 3 percent against the spread.

What we found was after knocking off an unbeaten team as a home favorite, teams back at home facing a conference opponent have been able to coral that emotion and momentum defeating their conference foe even though they were also coming in off a straight up victory in their last game.

This week's system actually has two active games for Saturday's college football action you can visit KillerSports.com and use the SDQL Query to find the second game.

Last week the USC Trojans faced off against the Arizona State Sun Devils who were a perfect 4-0 straight up on the season. The Trojans had little trouble taking down the Devils the odds-makers had installed them as nine-point home favorites and they came through winning 41 to 20 against the previously unbeaten Sun Devils.

The USC Trojans are home again this week facing Pac 12 Conference foe Colorado Buffalos. The Buffalos make the trip to the City of Angels on Saturday to take on the Men of Troy. Our system tells us the Men of Troy are prepared to take down this conference opponent who is riding high off their win last week.

With the system parameters met and the Trojans emotionally charged for a huge conference game we will lay the four-points the oddsmakers have hung on USC as they roll over the Buffalos on Saturday. Have a great weekend and as always good luck.

Every bettor enjoys a winning week but the true sense of satisfaction is when you can follow it up with a second-straight week of winners. It provides a bit of breathing room, not to mention some cushion for your bankroll. I was unable to build on my two winners from Week 3, dropping my lone selection on the Panthers last Sunday to bring my newspaper record to 2-4. Back to the drawing board with these selections for Week 5.

ALL IN, ALL THE TIME

This week's game between the Atlanta Falcons and Denver Broncos resembles a wrecking ball (Falcons offense) that may finally meet its match (Bronco D). Atlanta has subsequently increased its offensive output each week since opening with a 31-24 loss to Tampa Bay (24-35-45-48 points). The Broncos defense has picked up where it left off in Super Bowl 50, winning four-straight and holding opponents to an average of just 16 points per game.

What's interesting about the Falcons is that they are also giving up more than 30 points per game and still finding ways to win. It's a sharp contrast to the style HC Dan Quinn tried to incorporate during a rookie season that saw only two overs (2-13-1 O/U), and no one is complaining about the results.

Database history reveals only nine teams that have allowed more than 30 points in back-to-back games and won each game. Once we adjust the code to isolate teams that are off a win in their most recent game, we get a broader sample of 54 plays.

SDQL: tS(o:points>30, N=2) = 2 and streak > 0

The overall record for these teams is 32 overs and 22 unders with a recent 9-1 O/U streak that dates back to 2013. Contrasting this "Over" trend is the following SDQL which shows a 66-percent record for unders since 2007 for any team off a win that has increased its scoring output in four-straight. The record is 31 overs and 60 unders.

SDQL: p:points > pp:points > ppp:points > pppp:points and p:W and season > 2006

The range of totals in those 91 games is anywhere from 34 to 56.5 and the Falcons at Broncos number is currently sitting at 47.5. Looking at the higher end, the all-time record for teams in this situation shows 5 overs and 21 unders (81-percent UNDER), with games averaging about 44 total points.

SDQL: p:points > pp:points > ppp:points > pppp:points and p:W and total > 47

Atlanta has faced defenses that finished last year in the top five (Panthers) and who are testing new limits of ineptitude (Saints). Two of their games were at home and another was indoors. This is going to be a tough environment against a much stronger D than anything the Falcons have seen thus far. It's also non-conference and Denver is home off a two-game trip. The Broncos and their fans will cause problems for Matt Ryan's high flying offense and I'll be surprised if they score more than 20 points.

Pick No. 1: Take the Falcons and Broncos UNDER

WALKING CONTRADICTION

The Minnesota Vikings are 4-0 and the last time a non-conference home team on a hot streak covered off a Monday night game was in 1992. Eight teams are 0-7-1 ATS since.

Teams that have yet to lose a game are on a 2-8 ATS run in this spot since 1999. They've split the series at 5-5 straight-up, winning by an average of 2.1 points, but the average spread of -4.5 was giving the home side too much credit.

SDQL: H and p:day = Monday and NB and not C and losses = 0 and season > 1998

Single-digit favorites in this angle went 2-4 SU and 0-6 ATS, including the New York Jets last season in Week 3. New York was coming off a Monday win over the Colts and fell behind the Eagles in the first-half. In the end, Philly won the game 24-17 and New York bounced back to win its next two in a row. One thing to consider is that New York and two more teams in this profile had divisional games on-deck. Minnesota has a bye week up next and every player in this locker room would like nothing more than a perfect record through five.

SDQL: HF and p:day = Monday and n:week = week + 2 and season > 2001

The database record for home favorites off a Monday game that had a bye on-deck is 20-10-1 O/U and seven of the unders took place before league realignment in 2002. Since then, the record is 19-3-1 O/U (86-percent OVER). Favorites of -6 or more have a perfect 9-0 SU record in this spot and they are 7-2 ATS (6-3 O/U). On average, the home fave has scored 33.9 points per game and only one has finished with fewer than 27.

SDQL: HF and p:day = Monday and n:week = week + 2 and season > 2001 and line <= -6

The Vikings team total is 23 and despite some concerns over place kicker Blair Wash, I'm convinced they can get over that modest target.

Pick No. 2: Take the Vikings Team Total OVER 23 points

The Browns are 0-6 ou since Dec 10, 2009 and at home and as a 7+ dog.

Bears at Colts - The Bears are 7-0 ats since Nov 27, 2005 on the road off a win in a game as a dog where they outgained their opponent. The Bears are 0-6 ats since Oct 28, 2012 off a win in which they never trailed. The Colts are 0-6 ats since Nov 28, 2010 at home vs a non-divisional opponent off a loss in which they never led. The Bears are 0-9 ou since Dec 27, 1998 off a win in a home game as a dog where they outgained their opponent. The Colts are 10-0-1 ou since Oct 30, 1994 and off a loss and when they are at home before 2+ road games. The Colts are 0-8 ou since Oct 21, 2012 at home as a favorite after a loss where they failed to cover. The Power of Two-Team Teasers

One of the fantastic and unique features of www.killersports.com is the ability to run teaser trends. Each week we'll show off five such two-team teaser trends in this space utilizing this important and often overlooked area of handicapping. Any trend with a "p6" designation is for a play on/under 6-pt teaser and a trend including "m6" is for a play against/over 6-pt teaser.
