PICK SIXTY SPORTS WEEKLY TIP:

The Pittsburgh Steelers returned from their late bye week last Sunday and served as the perfect antidote for a Saints team who had lost three-straight. Pittsburgh accrued more than 500 yards of total offense for the third time this season but they also lost the turnover battle by more than one and since 2008, that has been a guaranteed recipe for disaster (0-19-1 ATS; SDQL Text: team = Steelers and TOM >= 2 and season >= 2008). This week the Steelers face a Bengals team who have won three-straight and although that run is impressive, Cincinnati's margin of victory has reduced with each victory.

SDQL Text: DIV and HF and p:margin < pp:margin < ppp:margin and p:ATSL and line >= -4 and week >= 10

In the first part of the year, teams can shake off the steady decline, going 19-8 SU and 14-12-1 ATS as divisional home faves off a downturn but as you'll see from the above link, these teams are just 7-34-3 ATS (17-percent) in this spot when laying -4 points or less from Week 10 out. Their straight-up record is not remarkably better (14-30) and small chalk off a three game road trip is just 3-7 ATS the past few seasons as well. As of Thursday, the Steelers were still available with some books at +3.5 (-120) but it looks like +3 is the common number. As long as you are getting a field goal, book a play on Pittsburgh to bounce back.

Pick Sixty's Power Rating plays are 16-5 ATS this season and a full report for this weekend will be posted at www.picksixtysports.com.

Note: It is not SportsBook Breakers recommendation to make plays based solely on one trend (our selections at killercappers.com don't). Weigh these trends along with other factors accordingly.

SBB's NCAA O/UTREND:

Louisiana Tech is 9-0 OU (21.8 ppg) since 2006 when they scored at least 50 points last game and have less than 127 points combined in their last two games.

SDQL TEXT: team=LTCH and p:points>=50 and (game number=2 or tS(points, N=2)<127)

SBB's NCAA SUPER SYSTEM

Teams coming off a game that went under by at least 34 points are 44-57-3 OU. Active on Cincinnati and Temple.

SDQL TEXT: p:ou margin<=-34
